Cruising Connecticut with a Picnic Basket

Jan Mann : Cruising Connecticut with a Picnic Basket before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Cruising Connecticut with a Picnic Basket:

3rd Edition Come along with the author on forty-two day trips suitable for a variety of ages and interests, such as Arts, Music Theater, City Walking Tours, Fall Fun Foliage, Hiking Biking, Historic Homes Gardens, Mystic, Shopping, Special Interest, Spring Wildflower Hunt, Water Fun and Wineries. The unique picnicking facilities available are also described so visitors can enjoy a snack or lunch either before or after the activity. And, to help with the packing of the picnic, a suggested menu appropriate to each destination follows with one or two delicious recipes. This book will be enjoyed by the active day tripper or the arm-chair traveler, the picnic aficionado or the novice picnicker, and for anyone who loves cookbooks.

This book guides you through an awesome tour around Connecticut. Just imagine a picnic during the winter months, or use this as a guide and plan on a real tour; this book is the greatest.Dan Uitti, Connecticut Authors Publishers

Association, President --The Authority, CAPA NewsletterAbout the AuthorWriting has been a part of Jan's life since age nine when she submitted a poem to the children's poetry section of the Hartford Times Newspaper and promptly received her first rejection, a hand-written letter encouraging her to continue writing. As an adult Jan founded the Open Circle Writers Group and is an active member of Connecticut Authors and Publishers Association. Along with writing, Jan has long had a passion for day tripping and enjoys scouring the state looking for exciting new places to be discovered. She enjoyed designing special outings for friends and family for many years before embarking on the biggest adventure of her life - writing and publishing a day tripping book. Since the first edition of Cruising Connecticut in 2006 Jan has traveled extensively throughout Connecticut talking to various groups about the joys of day tripping and picnicking.
