Utterly charming and descriptive; great kitten poem withinBy Liz BellI found this little book in a museum gift shop in New York this summer and bought it for a neighbor girl. I was so charmed by it I bought it for another girl. If for nothing else, you must get to read the poem on page 20 about a little kitten. It'll make your year.

This diary describes the memories of the author as a ten year old girl growing up in New York City from August 1849 through June 1850. She relates wonderful stories of people and places of old New York as seen through the eyes of a child.

From the Back Cover Many New Yorkers like to imagine the city as it was in days gone by. This diary describes the memories of the author as a ten year old girl growing up in New York City from August 1849 through June 1850. She relates wonderful stories of people and places of old New York as seen through the eyes of a child. Though the book may not bring back the little two-story brick houses that lined the tree-embowered streets, it may give a little pleasure to those who love New York.
