Dinky Toys (Schiffer Book for Collectors)

Dr Edward Force : Dinky Toys (Schiffer Book for Collectors) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Dinky Toys (Schiffer Book for Collectors):

For Dinky collectors this is a must - if only for photographs of models not seen in other books. The price guide is included because it supposedly helps sell the book, but "guide" is the operative word. Prices have increased a lot as any web search will show. In my opinion the 'bible' for Dinky Toys remains the Richardson's "Great Book of Dinky Toys", but Dr. Force compliments it with more photographs even though the majority are only side views. I salute all these efforts to document the production of these great toys realizing that the perfect book might well be too costly to produce. It is easy to criticize the efforts but these have to be tempered with the realization of the work involved by enthusiasts who add so much knowledge and enjoyment to our love of Dinky Toys.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. recommendBy Lisa PrauseInteresting read. Arrived as described and on time0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Good value.By First RspoderThis version is not a lot different from the many previous prints. The value tables are updated, as is some of the text. But values are best found on the many sites that actually trade these collectibles (which are sometimes depressingly low and other times incredibly high.) I love his detail on histories of the manufacturing. Author knows his stuff!

Dinky toys, produced from 1933 to 1980, have become popular collectibles today. This book, now in its seventh edition, offers concise history, detailed listing of major variations, chronological list, and a newly-updated price guide. It includes all the Dinky toys made in Britain, France, Spain, and other parts of world, from the earliest model railroad accessories to the first cars that bear the name Dinky Toys.

About the AuthorEd Force is a leading collector of toy cars and a professor of German who lives in Connecticut.
