MalnarIt covers antique collectible jewellery from 18th century to modern, gives plenty of details on styles, materials used, hallmarking and things to look for when buying. For each category (i.e. Art Nouveau brooches) it gives one representative item in picture and description + estimation of value, and several similar ones (different craftsmanship or designer than the main example) but without the value (which bugged me a little). If it also offered a comprehensive table with all/most info arranged in one place, for quick reference, it would be perfect.

This text is a guide to the vast range of jewellery produced in Europe and America from the 19th century to the present. Jewellery is divided into easy-reference sections by type, and everything is covered from Victorian Etruscan Revival brooches to 1980s designer costume jewellery. A final section is a guide to major makers, complete with marks.
