The Journey: The Journey

Augustus Ashwin Manoj : The Journey: The Journey before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Journey: The Journey:

It was a peaceful morning. The sun was dawning and all the passengers were scrambling through the PalmSprings International Airport, California. All the passengers were waiting for their flights as they were passing time by reading newspapers, listening to music and investing from the duty free store. All passengers travelling in KLM Airlines no.SK 957, are requested to board the flight immediately through Gate no.9C as the flight has been delayed. Thank You a mistress spoke, as she was commanded by her master. Soon all the passengers were on the flight. One of the passengers was American Secretary Hillary Clinton. Good morning ladies and gentlemen. I request everyone of you to buckle your seat belts as we are going to take off. We want everyone to be aware that their life jackets are in the compartments below you. If the cabin ever gets unpressurised, an oxygen mask will fall from above you. Please make sure that you put on your own mask before helping others who need help. If there is an emergency, please brace yourself before impact. If we land in water and there is choking smoke in the cabin, please cover your face with your handkerchief, get out of the seat and crawl on the floor. The cabin lights will follow you to any of the exits. Thank You the flight attendant, Sarah spoke through the telephone( phone used to speak to the passengers in the cabin) . Soon the flight took off and all the passengers were calmly reading their books and listening to music. The flight was not a big one. It was just an Airbus- A 320-200 series. But still the passengers were settled in and some were also using the cozy blankets which were provided and were dozing off.
