Potential buyers should realize that you often won't always get the events you expect to be featured, because they don't feature the same front pages every year, of course. So, the first year I bought one, they didn't have the front pages announcing V-E and V-J day, but they had a front page featuring D-Day. The next year, there was no D-Day front page, but the V-E and V-J pages were there. It's also a lot of fun to read the other stories on the front page. The calendar portion also notes interesting anniversaries, although not as many as I would have expected (only four or five per month).
